Caring for the Caregivers, Supporting the Support Workers

The 8th International Conference on Frontotemporal Dementias

5-7 September 2012, Manchester, U.K.

Mark this Date: On 6 September 2012 the FTD conference will feature a one-day meeting for family members, friends and support workers who care for a person with frontotemporal dementia or related condition.

You're Not Alone: The meeting aims to facilitate communication between caregivers, lay organisations, health professionals and scientists with the aim of improving the global provision of services to support families.

Stay Ahead of the Curve: The caregivers' programme will cover the latest research findings as well as clinical, social and practical information relevant to FTD.

Informality Required: There will be a strong emphasis on informality and the day will provide a forum for interactivity and discussion.

Mix and Mingle: A special caregivers' dinner will take place on the evening of 6th September at the Midland Hotel, where you'll be able to meet and socialise with other caregivers and members of lay organisations.

Programme with you in Mind: The conference organizers have made a special effort to develop a scientific programme that's tailored to caregivers. Sessions will include discussions on:

- Prospects for the Future: Where is Research Going?
- What can Support Organisations Offer Families? Current and Future Perspectives
- Models of Care in FTD
- Legal and Financial Issues

Ask Questions. Connect with Other Caregivers. Increase Quality of Care
