

Giving a Hand to Our Helping Hands!

AFTD Volunteer: Mary Selman

AFTD's dedicated and passionate volunteers allow the organization to create a stronger impact across the country than otherwise would be possible. Whether they are conducting outreach, representing the organization at a community event, fundraising, or participating in some other activity, their time and talents are greatly appreciated.

Mary Selman is one such volunteer. Employed in the over-the-counter drug product industry, and with a Ph.D. in chemistry, she was able to use her technical expertise and eye for detail to serve as copy editor of AFTD's 70-page FTD Research and Drug Development Landscape report. She then copy edited the extensive content for AFTD's new Kids' and Teens' website.

Mary became a volunteer to give back for all of the blessings that she has received. She first learned of FTD when her neighbor was diagnosed. In addition to volunteering for AFTD, she supports the organization in other ways such as taking part in the recent 5K race in King of Prussia. AFTD truly appreciates all that Mary does to support the organization and those affected by FTD.

Mary Selman

Written by: Robert Flannery, volunteer writer for AFTD